Antique Pine Apothecary or Island Counter with Original Paint

Known as a "grocer's desk" in Denmark, every country store whether grocer, hardware or pharmacist would have had a pine counter or storage cabinet, often with many small drawers such as you see in this one. This counter is free-standing, making it ideal to serve as a kitchen island in a modern home. It still maintains the original maroon painted drawer front, with grey and maroon painted trim along the back (or paneled counter side). The top has been left a natural pine as a warm accent against the painted counter. Drawers run smoothly and entire piece is strong and stable.
