Antique Hand Painted Blue Bench, Hungary

This delightful bench reminds one of a lazy summer day in the European countryside with blue skies above. The blue paint is all original, but has been naturally worn and distressed over time which adds to the character and charm of the bench. Please enlarge the photos to see age-related wear; you will also notice an older layer of residual green paint and the natural pine beneath where the paint has been completely worn or scraped off. There has been no new restoration or finish added to the bench, it is being sold just as we found it in Europe.
