Antique Blue Painted French Side Table With Carved Faces

The enticing blue painted finish and intricate carving combine to captivate ones attention in this striking side table from France. The two carved faces appear to be portraits of a nobleman (on the right) and his wife (on the left), while intricate carving abounds in the table skirt and attractive legs. Please enlarge the photos to appreciate the beautiful (newer) painted finish as the blue and white tones mix and are perfectly distressed to reveal the aged natural oak beneath, all combined adding depth and character to this table making it an excellent choice for an entryway. Expected age related cracks do not impact function in any way. This table is restored, stable and ready for use.
