Early 20th Century Original White Painted Bench With Storage

This wonderful pine bench still retains residual original white and gray paint, distressed over decades of use adding warmth to its authentic vintage feel. The open back has a tulip style back which was a traditional motif in benches throughout the European countryside during the 1800's. The hinged seat lifts to reveal a storage area that is sectioned in thirds. The entire bench has been restored, waxed and is sturdy/solid, ready to be used and enjoyed. Any knicks, stains, cracks or age-related separation of wood (refer to interior bottom) are commensurate with age and do not impact the function/strength of the bench in any way. Please take a moment to enlarge the photos and examine the details up close.
