Antique Original White Painted Bench With Curved Arms

There is something endearing about simple country benches that have past the test of time, such as this delightful original white painted bench. The curve of the arms sway outward, inviting one to sit and linger while the paneled back is graced with scalloped edging. The white paint is all original, and shows the wear, crackling and distress that occurs over many years of use which simply adding to the vintage character of the bench. Please examine the close up photos to understand the true color and aged, worn patina. Age related separation of the plank seat and minor cracks are all typical and do not impact function. This bench has been restored and waxed, so is solid/stable and ready to be used and enjoyed. Seat Height: 18.25"
